The Thirty-one unpatented mining claims in the group are situated from one to three miles north of the town of Globe, Arizona.

Exposed on the claims as indicated by ~~the~~ USGS geological map GQ 41 are pre-Cambrian Apache group sediments, Paleozoic sediments, Cretaceous or Tertiary diabase, and Tertiary dacite. The Irene vein falls largely within the claim group and the New Dominion vein lies just outside the southeast boundary of the claims.

New Dominion Vein is Manganese-zinc-lead-silver which strongly suggests that it is well out into the halo of non-economic mineralization of a porphyry copper deposit.

ATTENTION: Howard Lanier or Paul Eimon

Dear Howard:

We have been given claims which are located about two miles north and northwesterly of Globe, Arizona. Would you please evaluate the location of these claims to tell us their value at the present time, and if they do have value, would Essex be interested in them.

I always appreciate your expert advice on the mining properties that come into the University.

Regards,

H. Clyde Davis, Director
